

WILSON GAINING IN OFFICIAL COUNT OF CALIFORNIA'S VOTE

Hopes of Hughes Getting State Go Glimmering As Actual Figures Come

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Nov. 14.—Official count of the presidential election returns throughout California was resumed today with only minor changes in the standing of the two candidates from that given by the unofficial tabulation as the result of the first day's count.

President Wilson had the better of it, however, and the republicans' hope that the president's majority of more than 3,000 as shown by the unofficial count, will be cut down sufficiently to throw the state to Mr. Hughes is growing fainter.

In San Francisco, precincts checked so far, Wilson made a net gain of 6 votes. Wilson's gains of a few votes each also were made in Alameda, Riverside, Marin, Colusa and Monterey counties. In Kern county, Hughes made a net gain of one vote, Wilson having lost 11 votes and Hughes 10 in 61 out of 122 precincts. In Los Angeles county the official count is temporarily held up pending the finding of missing lists from four precincts. It is believed the missing lists were placed in the registrar's envelope for official returns. Verification of tally figures has revealed only small errors, some 50 or 60 votes being shifted back and forth, but neither Wilson nor Hughes gaining.

TO PROBE FRAUDS.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Plans were completed today by administration leaders for a senate investigation into charges that the republican national committee spent hundreds of thousands of dollars illegally in the national campaign. The matter has been discussed by President Wilson and senate leaders, resulting in a decision to begin the investigation shortly after congress convenes in December. It was learned from official quarters today. A general assemblage of democratic senators in Washington today caused reports, which were denied by all officials, that a special session of congress would be called.

It was said that most of the alleged illegal fund was spent in states east of the Mississippi. From administration officials close to President Wilson it was learned that Democratic National Chairman Vance McCormick has received what he claims to be positive evidence that the republican national committee collected more than $3,000,000 in Wall street just previous to the election and spent a large part of this in Indiana and West Virginia. The total expenditures of the republicans were said to be more than $7,000,000. It was learned today that the department of justice has been conducting a secret investigation into the amount of money spent during the campaign as well as of illegal voting.

SCRAMBLE IN CONGRESS.
Fight for Control of Next House Already Begins.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The post-election fight for control of the house in the sixty-fifth congress was begun here today. With both republicans and democrats just short of a majority in the next house, efforts to control the votes of progressive, prohibition and independent members, in the ballots which will organize the lower body, were already being made when representatives began arriving.

Speaker Champ Clark came back to Washington in a rather taciturn mood after the strain of a long campaign. He declined to hazard any estimate as to who would control the next house, but his friends at once began a campaign to win over the votes of independents in the sixty-fifth congress. The speaker was evidently prepared for a strenuous campaign for his re-election; he was determined not to concede the next house to the republicans. Democratic leaders were depending largely upon the fact that the administration would be under democratic control to win over the independent members. The optimism among the democrats was encouraged by the divide of sentiment of the republican house members reaching Washington.

Republican Floor Leader Mann of Illinois, is the logical candidate for speaker on the minority side of the chamber, but opposition to his candidacy has developed among influential republicans. Representative Leffert of Wisconsin, a La Follette progressive, and Representative J.

Hampton Moore of Pennsylvania, an old guard republican, have been mentioned as possible opponents of the republican floor leader in the fight for the candidacy for the speakership.

FACTORY OPERATES BY LIGHT OF POTATOES

ZURICH, Nov. 14.—A large factory in Nidau, Switzerland, just turned out its two-thousand instrument. Instead of celebrating this event with a banquet, the firm sent 500 pounds of potatoes to each of its employees. The men were greatly pleased with this substantial gift, as potatoes cost from three to four cents a pound and are almost unobtainable over the exorbitant price.

EXPENSE LISTS MUST BE FILED BEFORE FRIDAY

All Candidates Have Three Days Left for Their Accounts.

By David W. Bowman.
Filing the expense accounts, a welcome relief for the winner in any race and a bitter pill for the losers, is now the chief interest among those who appeared on the county ticket in the election of a year ago. Ten days is allowed by law for this little journey to the Sherwood block, and Friday is the deadline. Candidates, whether winners or losers, must turn in the lists of receipts and disbursements at that time, or pay themselves liable to a fine penalty.

The sums are limited by law, too, and all sums spent in excess of the legal limit are violations of the law, also punishable by fine and imprisonment, although no one ever turned in anything like that. An applicant's boundaries in the matter of legal expenditure are regulated by the voting population of the county, or of the district in case his territory includes more or less than a county.
The expenditure of $300 is permitted for the first 3000 votes, with $5 for each additional 100 in excess of the first 3000.

Nine expense accounts have been filed to date. Of these the highest is that of Emmet M. Fisher, democratic candidate for recorder, who put in $187.25 to be high man on his ticket.
The lowest is of Prosecutor Ortho O. Barr, $51.34. The others are: Representative Floyd
J. Brotherton, $165.80; Carl H.

SUFFRAGE HOSTS ARE HERE FOR CONCLAVE

Meeting of the state executive committee at the Business Women's club at 7:30 this evening will open the annual convention of the Ohio Woman's Suffrage association to be held here Wednesday and Thursday.
This committee will meet for the purpose of planning a program for next year's work, which upon its completion will be submitted to the convention tomorrow for discussion and approval.

Among the women of the committee who arrived this afternoon are Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, of Warren, Miss Anna B. Johnson, of session will be opened at 9:30 o'clock by Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, state president. Welcoming addresses will be given by Mayor Ballis H. Simpson, Mrs. D. L. Sherwood, president of the Lima Political Equality club and Mrs. Kent W. Hughes, president of Lima Federation of clubs.

One of the most interesting of the speakers of the morning session will be Mrs. Upton, who has held the position of president of the Ohio association since 1899, with the exception of two years when Mrs. Pauline Steinberg, of Toledo, filled the office.
Ohio possesses women whose lives have been devoted to the cause of equal suffrage and who are known all over the land. Of these, none is better known and loved than Mrs. Upton.
She is the daughter of parents who were identified with the development of the state, and of grandfathers who were among the pioneers; so her roots strike deep into the soil and there is a power in her appeal for recognition and justice which no newcomer, however impassioned, can command.

Mrs. Upton spent many years in Washington where her father, Ezra B. Taylor, long represented the nineteenth congressional district in congress.
Her interest in the suffrage movement dates from 1890. She was treasurer of the National American Woman's Suffrage association for several years and edited a suffrage periodical called "Progress".

Mrs. Upton is one of those women built on a big scale in body and spirit who win opposition by sheer force of humanity. Her speeches are inimitable—droll, pathetic, full of anecdote, fuller of common sense, with the wisdom of wide experience.
Nobody ever called her an orator, but there is nobody who always

WINTER'S ICY GRIP HOLDS NATION AND SNOWY WHITE MANTLE COVERS THE LAND

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—The entire west and middle west was gripped by the first severe cold wave of the season today. The sharp drop in the thermometer brought at least one death, several small fires and much hardship to the poor.
Sheridan, Wyoming, reported 26 degrees below zero, the record. The mercury dropped to 22 above at El Paso, Texas and even southern California counties were hit. Snow fell from the Mississippi river eastward and in the west gulf states.

Of coincident interest to the householder was the drop in coal prices engineered by the railroads.

A score of Cleveland brokers found themselves high and dry when the railroads declared an embargo against those of the brokers who have cars of coal standing in the Cleveland yards.

The brokers began this practice weeks ago, and the game was to wait for higher prices. Their hearts were buoyed by the hope of $10 coal. But wholesale coal dropped from $6 a ton to $4.25 and $4.50 to today on account of the embargo and it does seem as if the roads are going to stand some chance of getting their yards cleaned up.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 14.—
Blanketed with from six to eight inches of snow, Syracuse and Central New York awoke today in the grip of the real winter, and the first fall of snow of the season. The thermometer hovers in the 30's.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 14.—
The season's first snow-storm, which began yesterday has covered Rochester with six inches of snow and at 10 o'clock this morning the storm showed no signs of abating.

SEE RAIL EMBARGO TUMBLE COAL RATE

Traffic Officials Believe Action Against Brokers Will Aid Supply.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 14.—Coal cost will tumble a dollar or more a ton throughout Ohio and probably the central states within 24 hours if the effect anticipated follows embargoes by railroads on further shipments to receivers who already have standing in yards supplies of which they are not making disposal.

As soon as these supplies are unloaded and the markets feel the results, it is believed the price will come down. Yesterday, as a result of its embargo applied last week, B.
& O. railroad officials here reported a much more comfortable situation, and were thinking of removing the embargo.

At the same time, an embargo by the Big Four railroad against further coal shipments to more than a score of Cleveland coal brokers became effective.

The action served notice of how congestion and car shortage are being aggravated by consignees who either cannot or will not dispose of shipments standing in cars in the freight yards and so release the equipment thus tied up.

Move Hits Speculation.
It was regarded as another move aimed against possible speculation in the holding of car loads for still higher prices by refusal to unload and the paying of demurrage charges.

Further belief that the shortage has reached its climax and that the price is due to go down, was founded on the fact, reported by the Wall Street Review, that "the extreme fancy prices which the middlemen have obtained for coal have shown a tendency to go off a little, though remaining at a high premium."

ALLEGED SMUGGLERS HELD

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Nov. 14.—
Charged with smuggling thousands of pounds of ammunition across the Mexican border for the Carranzistas, Leopoldo Sanchez was arrested in San Antonio, while simultaneously two brothers Gonzales Flores and Cervino Flores were taken into custody near Eagle Pass.

ALLIED DRIVE IN WEST IS AIMED TO DIVERT ATTACK UPON RUMANIA

Russians Fling Back Teutons When They Advance Into Transylvania

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Fighting on the Somme front today commands the attention of the world. The new British drive west of Bapaume is England's contribution to the great combined allied offensive to save Rumania. The battle of the Ancre, which has carried the British troops a mile and one-half forward to the outskirts of Beaucourt is still raging with undiminished vigor. The attacks are being carried out by the British without the help of the French.

With Beaumont Hamel safely in their hands, the British are pounding the German lines over a front of five miles and have already captured nearly 5,000 prisoners. But the attacks are being carried out beneath a blasting cannonade from hundreds of German guns.

From a point of fierceness of fighting the attempt of the allies to encircle Bapaume is entering an entirely new phase.

Austro-German reinforcements are arriving on the Rumanian front to meet the heavy attacks of the Russians.

Rumanians. Unofficial reports continue to arrive, telling of the desperate plight of von Mackensen's army in Dobrudja, but these advices are not borne out by the official statements.

BERLIN, via Sayville, Nov. 14.—
The loss of the Somme front villages of Beaumont Hamel and St. Pierre Division to the British was officially admitted by the German war office today. The stubborn defense of the German soldiers caused them considerable losses.

In the sectors of Bebuterne and Grandcourt the British penetrated German trenches but were rolled back to their own positions by severe German counter attacks.

French have delivered fresh attacks against the Germans at Sullyle-Chateau, the statement says, but they were repulsed.

BERLIN, via Sayville, Nov. 14.—
Russian troops that invaded Transylvania in cooperation with the Rumanians, and advanced as far as the Goryg mountains, have been flung back to the frontier by General von Falkenhayn's Austro-German forces.
This success for Teutonic arms was announced by the war office today.

South of Rothenthurn pass several hundreds more of prisoners have been captured by the Austro-Germans, bringing the total in the recent fighting in that sector up to six officers and 650 men.

ENGLAND'S GREATEST BLOW

Drive on Somme Front Meets With Stout Resistance.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—England's greatest blow on the Somme front has been struck.

Smashing forward through the first line positions of the Germans over a line of five miles wide, the British have advanced more than a mile and are now in a position to strike at the strategic town of Miramont, which the Germans have been strongly fortifying. It is the first time the English have delivered a grand assault unaided by the co-operation of the French since the big drive against Bapaume and Peronne opened on July 1. With Beaumont Hamel, St. Pierre di Vion and probably Serre in their possession the British have straightened their line west of Bapaume, wiped out a German salient which has bothered them for months and stormed positions which the Germans had deemed impregnable.

But this important success did not go untested. German guns were turned loose upon the lost ground and darkness found the hosts of the kaiser surging forward in battering counter attacks against the new British line.

Few, if any of the bombardments carried out by the allies on the Somme front have equalled in fury the cannonade which preceded the British attacks between Gommecourt and Thiepval. German fortifications built of steel and concrete and powerful underground fortresses were pulverized by the tornado shells.
Huge 16-inch Howitzers were used in the cannonade. According to despatches from British headquarters today German troops holding the advanced positions were demoralized by the storm of steel which swamped them. Many of the prisoners that are now estimated at nearly 5,000 in number, were dazed and stunned when captured. It was beyond the powers of human endurance to stand out against the steady flow of explosive and gas projectiles.

The Grandcourt-Miramont line which is expected to be attacked next by the British is only five miles from Bapaume. It is on the Ancre river and the Albert highway.

Great rejoicing echoes throughout the British Isles. The newspapers are particularly elated over the fact that British troops and British guns won without the help of the French.
Good news has also come from the Balkans where the German allies are being harassed by constant attacks Von Mackensen's army is being pounded upon both flanks and, according to news from Saloniki, the Bulgarians are slowly being forced back into Servia along the line.

He sued for $6,000 damages, $100 for wreckage to his motorcycle and $10 for hospital bills.

The accident occurred on the Sandusky road in Bath township. Wildermuth was knocked from his cycle and suffered an abrasion of the right side, as well as various cuts and bruises, while he claimed his nervous system was permanently impaired.

The case was heard by Judge William Klingler and a jury yesterday.

LOCAL PATROLMEN LOOK FOR THIEVES

Local police were informed to be on the lookout for burglars who this morning broke into the First National bank at Weston, Ohio. According to the meager information received from the officials of Weston, the thieves were frightened away from the bank before they had entered the vault, and consequently succeeded in obtaining only $150.

All incoming trains on the C. & D. railroad were searched this morning, following the report of the robbery, but no arrests were made. Weston authorities are of the opinion that the robbers took a southbound freight after perpetrating the job.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lower, of Chicago, are visiting Mrs. Lower's parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Michael, at West Market street.

GRAVES, ALLEGED TO BE SPY, MAY BE A DIPLOMATIC CASE

U. S. Secret Service Agents Seek to Unravel Newest Tangle.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Department of justice officials today still were confronted with the possibility of international issues growing out of the arrest of Armgard Karl Graves on a charge of attempting to blackmail German embassy officials. Secret service agents were turning their full efforts toward discovering how Graves obtained the letters addressed to Countess Von Bernstorff. Chief Bielaski of the department of justice's bureau of investigation, who has personal charge of the case, stated that Graves may not be arraigned before a United States commissioner here tomorrow, as was contemplated, until after the source from which he had obtained the letters had been revealed. It was reported that British officials in New York City were being questioned concerning the letters.

GERMAN AIRMEN USE EXPLOSIVE BULLETS, HE SAYS

American Aviator Fighting With French, Thinks Allies Too Lenient.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—"It certainly looks as though the 'Boches' were after us," said a member of the American Escadrille, who is in Paris on six days' leave. "As soon as the Escadrille, composed entirely of Americans, was formed last spring and sent to Luxeuil, the Germans came over and raided the aviation field there, although the French aviators had used it as a base for a long time and had never been attacked."

"Then we were moved to the Verdun sector," this man said, "and as soon as we had arrived at Bar-le-Duc that town was raided by the 'Boche' aviators, who dumped tons of explosives on it in the course of their half-dozen aerial attacks."

"Then a few weeks ago we were transferred back to the Vosges, and as soon as we arrived at Luxeuil again the 'Boche' aviators raided it. The very first morning we were there, mind you, although they had not dropped a bomb on the place since had been gone," he declared.

Now it is rumored that the American Escadrille is to be shifted again. The men hope to get to the Somme front; indeed they confidently expected they were on their way to participate in the great allied offensive when they would leave the Verdun sector.

"One thing is rather good news for us," the aviator continued. "That is that we now have information obtained I believe from a German prisoner or else found among papers in a captured German division base, that American aviators are not to be shot summarily, if they are captured."

"Heretofore," this aviator said, "it has always been understood that the Huns would shoot any American in French uniform that fell into their hands, without a trial—just a drumhead court martial and then a firing squad. They shoot any Americans or Lorraines that they capture, and that is the reason why men from these provinces are seldom allowed to get in the fighting lines."

"And we have absolute proof," he said, "that the Germans shoot a good many foreign legionaries on the ground that men in the legion volunteered to fight. A foreign legionnaire whose right arm had been amputated at the shoulder and was repatriated to France by way of Switzerland asserted that 23 of his comrades who had been captured and wounded were shot. He escaped because the shell that shattered his arm blew off all his clothing, and also his identification disk which showed his regimental number. He kept his mouth shut. He was dazed anyway, and was sent back into the interior of Germany before they had a chance to find out he was a legionnaire. Then of course the Germans have been killing all the Sonesgaleses they captured, but fortunately they haven't captured many of the black troops."

What is particularly exasperating to the American aviators, however, is the fact that German airmen continually use explosive bullets, in direct contravention of the Hague tribunal agreements, and that captured aviators found with explosive bullets in their machine guns are not punished.

"Look what the 'Boches' did to poor Chapman," continued my informant. Their explosive bullets tore a hole as big as a plate in poor Kiffin Rockwell's chest. And they tore Baisley all to pieces; at the American ambulance they have extracted the plunger that made the bullet explode from Baisley's thigh."

BROTHERHOOD AND RAILWAYS HEADS TO MEET SUNDAY

Deadlock With Big Strike Threatened if 8-Hour Law is Contested.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—With the railroad situation again growing ominous another meeting of the officials of the "Big Four" brotherhoods and the railway managers' committee, has been set provisionally for next Sunday in Washington. It may be held sooner. A deadlock exists as a result of two futile sessions held here yesterday. As the situation stands today the railroad employees, approximately 400,000 in number, threaten to strike unless the eight-hour day is provided for by the Adamson act, goes into effect on January 1. The railroads are fighting the constitutionality of the measure.

"No power on earth can prevent a national strike if the Adamson law is held unconstitutional," declared G. H. Sines, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, before leaving the city today. "This attitude has been taken by us because, by means of injunctions, the railroads can defeat the purposes of the commission appointed by the president to see that the eight-hour law is given a fair trial."

A general path to be followed in smoothing out the tangled international situation confronting the United States was surveyed today by President Wilson and Senator Stone, of Missouri, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee. The senator called at the White House for his first post-election conference. Senator Stone declared that the foreign policy of the administration would not be materially altered as a result of the election, and that "absolute neutrality" would continue to be the watchword of the administration in its relations with the belligerent powers of Europe.

"The country has endorsed the peace and neutrality program of the administration," he continued. "That policy will be continued. The president will have the full and complete support of congress in carrying out his policies."

VIEWS OF MINISTER EDUCATING FORCE IN HIS COMMUNITY

Pastor Must Work for Civic Good, Speakers at Council Declare.

Attendance is Ahead of All Expectations at Church Conference.

Opinions of the minister and his view of things as an educating force in the community, was the theme used by J. Ernest McAfee in telling of the preparation of the man for the ministry, before the session of the Ministers' council this forenoon. He urged well-trained, well-educated men, to hold these exalted positions, but held that above all, the man must be spiritually equipped for the place.

The plan of the minister in creating these educational forces was discussed by Orio J. Price and Frederick Apgar. He showed how, in many communities, the minister's plans went far and away ahead of all other people. He thought ministers should take an active part in the social, educational and civil life of communities, as well as political affairs.

Dr. Herbert S. Johnson talked on the minister as a recruiting force at the afternoon sessions, dealing especially with evangelistic methods. Morris W. Ehnestrated of the theme from the standpoint of world service.

Dr. Johnson will speak tonight on "Can America Keep Christ?" and Dr. Charles Stelzle, special field secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, will tell of the "Christianizing of Social Forces."

Nearly 200 ministers and Christiana laymen, representing every denomination of the Christian church in 15 counties of northwestern Ohio are attending the sessions of the council. Many are accompanied by their wives and daughters. Women are admitted to the sessions free, receiving a card honoring their attendance when with their husbands or fathers. Admission for men is by registration card only.

The attendance of all ages and patterns of the executive committee in haste. One failure of the convention is the fact that the ministers will carry back to their churches inspiration and desire for greater work, found in the gathering in Lima. All sessions are held in the Market street Presbyterian church. The council will close Wednesday evening.

WAGES INCREASED.

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 14.—More than 300 employees of the Wabash railroad were granted a wage increase averaging 7 1/2 per cent on Monday. Most of them reside here.

Griebling, $168.30; J. A. Miller, commissioner-elect, $138.50; S. F. McClure, $39; James L. Heath, $134.40; Paulo Bassett, $30.50; Dr. Charles L. Steer, $52.

The tabulation of the official vote in the county is the box score of county politics. Keen observers can tell from it who was the victim of treachery, where he was slashed, where the party lines are sharp and where insinuations, where missionary work needs to be done, how much certain issues affected the ticket and scores of other things.

The totals for the various offices, too, must not be ignored, for they show where the interest was greatest. They locate the fight. By counting up the figures in the election record a week ago, when the county record was broken, the following sums will be reached:

Total vote for president	14,140
For governor	14,318
For lieutenant governor	14,027
For secretary of state	13,908
For auditor of state	14,019
For treasurer of state	14,006
For attorney general	13,963
For U. S. senator	14,062
For member of congress	13,721
For state representative	14,099
For clerk of courts	13,962
For sheriff	14,297
For auditor	13,924
For treasurer	13,976
For recorder	13,946
For commissioner	13,799
For surveyor	13,661
For prosecutor	14,146
For coroner	13,985
For appellate judge	11,418
For probate judge	11,408

As the state supreme court and state senatorial contests are either without opposition or impossible to total proportionately, they are neglected above. The commissioners' vote is obtained by dividing the grand total by three.

Here we find interesting, but mystifying, statistics. Why, in Allen county, should the various fights on the state ticket attract the attention of more voters than the local battles in which they know all parties concerned? That is the fact of the matter. The order in which the totals run starts off with the governor, then the sheriff and prosecutor next with the president and representative coming after. But of the first ten, six are not county jobs at all.

This would make it appear that the most intense battle was the Cox-Willis move, with the Eley-Jenkins and Cable-Barr conflicts next. The president received fourth attention from the voters collectively. The representative came next. In the second set of five we find in this order the U. S. senator, lieutenant governor, state auditor and treasurer, and coroner. Any logic apparent? The third quintet bring the recorder and auditor, the fourth the secretary of state, commissioners, congressman, surveyor and appellate judge.

Another feature is that a couple of thousand voters in Allen county had no care for the personnel of the judiciary and ignored the judicial ballot entirely. The appellate bench got attention from just ten more voters than did the probate court, but both were more than 2,000 behind the large ballot jobs for interest.

Verily, the activities of the voting public are worthy of study, and he who would follow the antics of the electorate through the many ramifications must be primed for the unexpected.

Another thing shown by the official score is that the socialist are losing strength in the county. In 1914 the party averaged about 550, the high vote being 590, for member of congress. S. L. Newman got that total in a four cornered race with Russell, Cunningham and a moozer. This year most of the socialist candidates got about 411 votes, the highest being Diller, a candidate for commissioner, who polled 449. For prosecutor Ed Blank managed to land 443. Most of the socialist votes were cast in Lima.

The prohibitionists are deserting the party for the sake of supporting dry candidates in the other two parties, according to the figures. The common total is about 111, the high vote running to 152, case for Watkins for the U. S. senate.

"General" Jacob S. Coxe, independent candidate for the senate, polled 84 votes in Allen county. The number coming from the institution north of Lima is not known.

HARD CIDER WOULD HAVE BURNED, WHAT?

WHITINSVILLE, Mass., Nov. 14.—Sweet cider today is the sweetest thing in the quiet life of Amherst, but that does not necessarily mean that Amherst is an ardent advocate of prohibition. Flames broke out in one of its farm buildings, finding no water Amherstian and several neighbors went to the cellar of a barn, smashed in the heads of six barrels of new cider and waiting down his house and two barns with the apple juice, saved them.

PAYMASTER BEATS OFF THREE BANDITS ON PUBLIC STREET

CLEVELAND, Nov. 14.—H. P. Shupe, paymaster for the Cleveland Laundry company, fought off three men who held him up at the entrance to the laundry at noon today and managed to escape into the building.

Shupe was just entering the building when the men pulled up in front in an automobile. They jumped out and all three pulled guns and demanded Shupe's money. Shupe fought his way to the doorway of the building and clung to a bag he was carrying, which contained several thousand dollars.

Employees of the laundry who witnessed the holdup, rushed to Shupe's aid, and the three men fled to their automobile.

The employees then gave chase in another machine and caught the bandits and turned them over to the police.

COXEY'S CANDIDACY STANDS HIM $1,276

His receipts included $95 borrowed from John Kelley, of Cleveland.

Wilbur N. Patterson, of Muskingum county, received and spent nothing as a socialist candidate for state senator. Charles A. White, of Columbiana county, candidate for state senator, spent $99. E. R. Bathrick, of Akron, candidate for congress, received $700 and spent $1,500. He received $500 from the democratic national committee and $100 from Postmaster Reed, of Akron. ## GERMAN AIRMEN USE EXPLOSIVE BULLETS, HE SAYS

American Aviator Fighting With French, Thinks Allies Too Lenient.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—"It certainly looks as though the 'Boches' were after us," said a member of the American Escadrille, who is in Paris on six days' leave. "As soon as the Escadrille, composed entirely of Americans, was formed last spring and sent to Luzeuil, the Germans came over and raided the aviation field there, although the French airmen had used it as a base for a long time and had never been attacked."

"Then we were moved to the Verdun sector," this man said, "and as soon as we had arrived at Bar-le-Duc that town was raided by the 'Boche' aviators, who dumped tons of explosives on it in the course of their half-dozen aerial attacks."

"Then a few weeks ago we were transferred back to the Vosges, and as soon as we arrived at Luzeuil again the 'Boche' aviators raided it. The very first morning we were there, mind you, although they had not dropped a bomb on the place since had been gone," he declared.

Now it is rumored that the American Escadrille is to be shifted again. The men hope to get to the Somme front; indeed they confidently expected they were on their way to participate in the great allied offensive when they would leave the Verdun sector.

"One thing is rather good news for us," the aviator continued. "That is that we now have information, obtained I believe from a German prisoner or else found among papers in a captured German division base, that American aviators are not to be shot summarily, if they are captured."

"Heretofore," this aviator said, "it has always been understood that the Huns would shoot any American in their hands, without a trial—just a drumhead court martial and then a firing squad. They shoot any Americans or Lorraines that they capture, and that is the reason why men from these provinces are seldom allowed to get in the fighting lines."

"And we have absolute proof," he said, "that the Germans shoot a good many foreign legionaries on the ground that men in the legion volunteered to fight. A foreign legionnaire whose right arm had been amputated at the shoulder and was repatriated to France by way of Switzerland asserted that 23 of his comrades who had been captured unwounded were shot. A foreign legionnaire whose shell shattered his arm blew off all his clothing, and also his identification disk which showed his regimental number. He kept his mouth shut. He was dazed anyway, and was sent back into the interior of Germany before they had a chance to find out he was a legionnaire. Then of course the Germans have been killing all the Senegalese they captured, but fortunately they haven't captured many of the black troops."

What is particularly exasperating to the American aviators, however, is the fact that German airmen continually use explosive bullets, in direct contravention of The Hague tribunal agreements, and that captured aviators found with explosive bullets in their machine guns are not punished.

"Look what the 'Boches' did to poor Chapman," continued my informant. Their explosive bullets tore a hole as big as a plate in poor Kitten Rockwell's chest. And they tore Baisley all to pieces; at the American ambulance they have extracted the plunger that made the bullet explode from Baisley's thigh."

BROTHERHOOD AND RAILWAYS HEADS TO MEET SUNDAY

Deadlock With Big Strike Threatened if 8-Hour Law is Contested.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—With the railroad situation again growing ominous another meeting of the officials of the "Big Four" brotherhoods and the railway managers' committee, work needed to be done, how much certain issues affected the ticket and scores of other things.

The tabulation of the official vote in the county in the case of county politics. Keen observers can tell from it who was the victim of treachery, where he was slashed, where the party lines are sharp and where indifference, where missionary work needs to be done, how much certain issues affected the ticket and scores of other things.

Total vote for president 14,140 For governor 14,318 For lieutenant governor 14,027 For secretary of state 13,908 For auditor of state 14,019 For treasurer of state 14,006 For attorney general 13,963 For U. S. senator 14,062 For member of congress 13,721 For state representative 14,099 For clerk of courts 13,962 For sheriff 14,297 For auditor 13,924 For treasurer 13,976 For recorder 13,946 For commissioner 13,799 For surveyor 13,661 For prosecutor 14,146 For coroner 13,985 For appellate judge 11,418 For probate judge 11,408

As the state supreme court and state senatorial contests are either without opposition or impossible to total proportionately, they are neglected above. The commissioners' vote is obtained by dividing the grand total by three.

Here we find interesting, but mystifying, statistics. Why, in Allen county, should the various rights on the state ticket attract the attention of more voters than the local battles in which they know all parties concerned? That is the fact of the matter. The order in which the totals run starts off with the governor, then the sheriff and prosecutor next with the president and representative coming after. But of the first ten, six are not county jobs at all.

This would make it appear that the most intense battle was the Cox-Willis battle, with the Eley-Jenkins and Cable-Barr conflicts next. The president received four attention from the voters collectively. The representative came next. In the second set of five we find in this order the U. S. senator, lieutenant-governor, state auditor and treasurer, and coroner. Any logic apparent? The third quintet bring the treasurer, attorney general, clerk, recorder and auditor, the fourth the secretary of state, commissioners, congressman, surveyor and appellate judge.

Another feature is that a couple of thousand voters in Allen county had no care for the personnel of the judiciary and ignored the judicial ballot entirely. The appellate bench got attention from just ten more voters than did the probate court, but both were more than 2,000 behind the large ballot jobs for interior.

Verily, the activities of the voting public are worthy of study, and he who would follow the antics of the electorate through the many ramifications must be primed for the unexpected.

Another thing shown by the official score is that the socialist are losing strength in the county. In 1914 the party averaged about 550, the high vote being 590, for member of congress. S. L. Newman got that total in a four cornered race with Russell, Cunningham and a went far and away ahead of all other people. He thought ministers should taken an active part in the social, educational and civil life of communities, as well as political affairs.

Dr. Herbert S. Johnson talked on the minister as a recruiting force at the afternoon sessions, dealing especially with evangelistic methods. Morris W. Ehnstrated of the theme from the stand-point of world service. Dr. Johnson will speak tonight on "Can America Keep Christ?" and Dr. Charles Strelitz, special field secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, will tell of the "Christianizing of Social Forces."

Nearly 300 ministers and Christian laymen, representing every denomination of the Christian church in 15 counties of northwestern Ohio are attending the sessions of the council. Many are accompanied by their wives and daughters. Women are admitted to the sessions free, receiving a card honoring their attendance when with their husband or father. Admission for men is by registration card only.

The attendance card used as a pattern of the executive committee in charge. One feature of the convention is the fact that ministers and laymen will carry back to their churches inspiration and desire for greater work, found in the gathering in Lima. All sessions are held in the Market street Presbyterian church. The council will close Wednesday evening.

HARD CIDER WOULD HAVE BURNED, WHAT?

WHITINSVILLE, Mass., Nov. 14.—Sweet cider today is the sweetest thing in the quiet life of Farkis Aedishan, but that does not necessarily mean that Farkis is an ardent advocate of prohibition. Flamas broke out in one of his farm buildings, finding no water Aedishan and several neighbors went to the cellar of a barn, smashed in the heads of six barrels of new cider and wetting down his house and two barns with the apple juice, saved them.

PAYMASTER BEATS OFF THREE BANDITS ON PUBLIC STREET

CLEVELAND, Nov. 14.—H. P. Shupe, paymaster for the Cleveland Laundry company, fought off three men who held him up at the entrance to the laundry at noon today and managed to escape into the building.

Shupe was just entering the building when the men pulled up in front in an automobile. They jumped out and all three pulled guns and demanded Shupe's money.

Shupe fought his way to the doorway of the building and clung to the bag he was carrying, which contained several thousand dollars.

Employees of the laundry who witnessed the holdup, rushed to Shupe's aid, and the three men fled to their automobile.

The employees then gave chase in another machine and caught the bandits and turned them over to the police.

ELECTION FRAUDS
Common as they may be, election frauds are rarely punished. Reports of bribery and corruption, of ballot-box stuffing and repeating, colonization and floating, are too frequent in this day to attract much attention. And any man with a little knowledge of the actual conditions will admit that there is plenty of basis for such charges.
Yet prosecutions under the corrupt practices act are few. Convictions are much fewer. Executions of sentence are too few to note. All this is because the public fails to realize the gravity of offenses against the purity of elections.
Common error, long prevalent, made the cities the homes of corruption and election frauds, but the "good old country vote" is in on the deal as well. Look at Adams county.

Occasionally some one serves a short term for breaking the corrupt practices law, but not very often or very long. Look over the expense accounts of some of our candidates. Figure out the cost of their legitimate expenses in the way of advertising and printing, cartage and the like, and you will fall far short of the sum expended—if they tell the truth. But the trouble is that some of them don't return all of the items in their reports.

ANOTHER DRIVE
First it was by the British and French in joint attacks at Loos and along the Somme. Then it was by the French alone at Verdun. Now the British have launched at Amiens an advance which promises interesting developments. Not only does this new concentration offer us a new set of names by way of diversion, but the chances are that the drive will go farther and accomplish more in the way of digging up news of interest.
With winter already on, the trenches offer small opportunity for snipers and rifle fire. Only artillery can make the scene lively and interesting, and as the shelling is followed by infantry charges the occasional exercise is welcomed by the men in the front lines. But it is patent that a drive of this nature, unless against a weakened enemy, is more costly to the offensive party than to the defenders, and the British stand to lose more in men and resources than they will gain by a winter drive.
It does not seem probable that this battle will last for any length of time, for unless the driving force gets an advantage within a few days the chance must be lost for good. The Germans have proved themselves well prepared against long drawn attacks covering extended fronts, but their ability to withstand a short, swift, snappy punch in one point, with artillery fire concentrated, is now more than ever in question and will be worth watching as the Amiens conflict develops.

CAMPAIGN ADVERTISING
In no other election campaign in the history of the United States has newspaper advertising been so largely used as in the period closed this week. The campaign issues were thrashed out daily for every voter in all parts of the country in his favorite newspaper. No petty party lines were drawn in selecting the mediums. Democratic newspapers received Republican advertising and vice versa.
At all times voters were kept in constant touch with new issues in a way that could not be done with a million stump speakers. Party millions of letters, or through any other means. Each day the party messages and arguments went to each newspaper reader personally as an important news development, and, needless to say, they received minute attention and bore great influence on the way citizens marked their ballots at the polls.

DINNER PROBLEM IS SERIOUS ONE IN CITIES OF NATION

Hotels Are Feeding Local Persons as Well as Transients.

By Frederic J. Haackin.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 10.—In Boston the hotels and restaurants feed not only the transients but the townspeople as well. It is a city of eating places; but they are not like the palaces of pleasure that line Broadway. True, many of them have good music, and a few of them have dancing, but nearly all of them specialize in good food at most reasonable prices. Table d'hôte dinners and special orders are the foundation of their success, and it is immense. Despite the number of eating places all of them are crowded, and they are crowded largely with local people and those from nearby towns.
The successful handling of this public feeding question in Boston is the more significant because all over the country hotel men will tell you that they are losing money on their dining rooms. In order to offer a long la carte menu, they are compelled to keep great quantities of food on hand, much of which spoils before it can be used. The dinner has to pay for the wasted food as well as for what he eats. So the price of hotel living goes on upward, without giving any satisfaction either to the diner or the proprietor.
It was that way in Boston a few years ago. Many of the hotels were losing money. A certain very ancient and respectable hostelry, which we will call the Historical House was in an especially bad way. The Historical House was widely known and well, and there were many persons who would go to no other hotel. On the other hand, newer and more accessible places were slowly robbing it of business. Although it still made something on its rooms, its restaurant was operated at a heavy loss.
An advertising man on one of the local newspapers went to the proprietor of the Historical House, and made him a proposition. He said that if the proprietor would put up two hundred and fifty dollars he would guarantee to send to the Historical House all the people that it could feed. The proprietor hesitated a long time. He said two hundred and fifty dollars looked so big to him that it would break his heart to see it roll away. The newspaper man reminded him that the money was rolling away anyhow, and that he had promised the two hundred and fifty would roll back. At last the proprietor agreed to put up the fund, which was to be used in front page advertising at a dollar a line. The newspaperman attended to that, while the hotel keeper set about converting the best table d'hôte lunches and dinners that his establishment could possibly produce. He did not go half way in this matter. Into his fifty-cent lunch he put the dollar dinner he put the best food that money could buy, and all of it that a man could eat. There was no margin of profit. The hotel keeper calculated that he must first get the crowd, and then find a way to get the money.

The crowd came, and it was a steadily swelling crowd—one that never ceased to grow as long as there was room for more. The hotel man doubled his dining room space on the main floor, and converted some of his upstairs rooms into private dining rooms, and still he could not accommodate his patronage. Last Sunday night the door of his dining room was packed with people many of whom had been waiting half an hour to get a seat. Three orchestras and a large battery of singers entertain the guests. On holidays every seat is reserved days in advance. It is a poor day for business when this establishment does not feed twelve hundred people, and it sometimes feeds a thousand at one time.
Throughout this rush of prosperity, the proprietor has never made a cent of profit, according to his own statement on one of his table d'hôte meals, and anyone sampling the dinner will believe it. It is as complete as a dinner can be made, including relishes, soup, fish, entrée, two meats, and several vegetables, a punch, a salad two desserts, cheese, crackers, fruit and coffee. Every portion is liberal. It takes a strong man of generous capacity to go through the menu; most people stop with a sigh about half way. Yet this very superabundance is a strong drawing card. The public gets what the public loves—a large undemable money's worth.
If these meals are served at cost, where does the profit come in? Whisper it. On the drinks. Also to some extent, on the special orders. Conspicuously played up on the bill of fare are planked steak and fried chicken, which are served for two at a dollar and a half. These orders are very good, but there is a good percentage of profit on each one served. It is practically a case of those who can afford cocktails and planked steaks furnishing the general public with a good meal at cost—a sort of income tax restaurant.
Perhaps you would not think these extras would bring in enough money to make the business pay. It paid $43,000 net last year.
The proprietor of this hotel believes that his success is due largely to the fact that he is feeding the public more cheaply than it can feed itself at home while food prices are so high—and they are higher in New England than anywhere else in the country. He points out that for a man and his wife a meal at home will cost more than a dollar—the meat order alone will cost more than that very often. By buying and cooking food in immense quantities he can serve it more cheaply than could any establishment as small as a private family.

This remarkable rejuvenation of the Historical House naturally made all of the local hotel and restaurant keepers prick up their ears. Advertising in the newspapers became the established policy for them. The paper that held out a hand to the Historical House now carries on its front page every day the advertisements of from eight or twelve hotels and restaurants, and nearly all of these are doing a good business. The newspaper enjoys an income of about a hundred and fifty thousand dollars a year from this class of advertising. The people get better food for less money. The hotel keepers get more money. Everybody wins. It is an idea that worked.

TRAVELETTE BY NIKSAN.

THE UPTOWN BROADWAY.

It has often been remarked by visitors from Denver and other scientific investigators that New York's Broadway is apparently patronized by people from all over the world except the native resident of New York. And it is probably true that Seattle knows its way about the Rialto at least as well as does East Seventy-second street, and the cabarets along from Des Moines than from Amsterdam Avenue. The fact of the matter is that the out-of-town visitor, descending upon the metropolis trained to the minute, with the express intention and determination of taking in Broadway, succeeds largely in crowding the natives off the walk.

Hence it has come about that other New York streets, which never attain more than a local fame, have become pleasure-grounds for the real New Yorker, who leaves the streets and the restaurants of world-reputation to the hordes of the invader. Such a street, for instance is One Hundred and Twenty-fifth, often called by its frequenters the "uptown Broadway."

One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street lies in the apartment house section, about in the middle of the long narrow city that is modern New York. From here to the Battery is a long ride on the express trains, and from here to the limits of New York, up beyond the Bronx, is a longer ride by local. The dweller in this section rarely takes either of these rides. He goes down to the office in the morning, and in the evening returns to his own little sidestreets. If he craves amusement, he strolls down One Hundred and Twenty-fifth.

Here is a street of bright lights and theatres and movie shows and restaurants, the sort of a street that a small city might pay to with pride as representing the gay life. It comes as a relief after the lights of the real Broadway that are a little too bright, the gaiety that is a little too strained. Here is a certain atmosphere of domesticity and quiet good humor that is most restful. The people who are having a good time here belong to the comprehensive human race that will have to report for work at eight in the morning. On Broadway you see the art of pleasure carried to the last degree, but on "A Hundred and Twenty-fifth" it is possible to enjoy yourself and feel at home.

"Wilson Re-elected By Women of the West"

Hughes Women's "Billionaire Train" and the Element of Patronage Involved Enraged Them, Says Mrs. Bass—President's Constructive Work Made a Great Appeal.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—"The women of the west re-elected the president," says Mrs. George Bass, manager of the Western Women's Bureau of the Democratic campaign committee. "The Hughes women's billion-dollar train helped us mightily. Mrs. Nelson O'Shaughnessy's impassioned appeals for the 'protection' of the Mexican border was one feature. It's response was the votes of the women of the border states for President Wilson."

"Despite the deceptive suffrage appeal of the so-called Woman's party, claiming to represent the women voters of the United States, ten of the twelve voting states have made the re-election of President Wilson certain."

"The principal factors which contributed to the result in the ten voting states were: "First, the sending out to the voting state of the west the Hughes special, the so-called 'billionaire train.' The very idea enraged the women of the west. The element of patronage involved added force to their resentment and it undoubtedly cost the republican campaign thousands of votes in each of the western states."

"Second, the slogan, 'Wilson has kept us out of war,' used in derision and reproach by the Hughes campaigners, proved really to be a great winning argument with the women of the voting states. The failure of Mr. Hughes or any of his speakers to substitute an opposition constructive program is shown by the voters of the border states which we were all asked to protect."

"Mrs. O'Shaughnessy, on the Hughes special, made impassioned appeals for the protection of the Mexican border, and the Mexican border to a woman responded by voting for Wilson."

"The record of the president, his constructive, progressive legislation, made a tremendous appeal to the women of the west, and this was not broken down by the efforts of the republican campaigners to belittle the value of the child labor bill in the face of the indorsements of experts like Owen Lovejoy and Senator Albert Cummins of their own party."

"As against this record the attempt to set up outworn party shibboleths, like a protective tariff, failed to convince. Women remembered, even though they are but little interested in the purely economic phases of legislation, that a non-partisan tariff commission has been formed to take that question entirely out of politics."

"The attempt of the militants to inject the suffrage issue into this campaign, aided by the empty declaration of the republican candidate for a federal amendment, which he did not reinforce by any statement of what he would do, or how, and the active support of this propaganda by the republican national campaign contributed more largely than any other factor to solidify the votes of the women of the west against the election of Mr. Hughes."

"Once more the women of the west resented the invasion of women from the non-voting states of the east, backed by the millions of Wall Street, trying to sow the seeds of dissension and creating sex antagonisms."

NOW U. S.-MEXICAN LABOR CO-OPERATES

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 14.—"What an important part the organized labor movement in Mexico and the United States have had in preventing war between the two nations was shown at length today when the executive council made its report here to the thirty-sixth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor."

The union labor movement in Mexico started only with the presidency of Francisco Madero, says the report, but already it has made almost incredible strides. On Sept. 22, 1915, the executive council asked President Wilson to recognize the Carranza government. On October 19, following, this was done.

Samuel Gompers, president of the federation, kept in touch with the representatives of the labor movement of the neighboring republic throughout the winter of 1915-16. In the spring war between the two nations seemed imminent. On May 23, 1916, Mr. Gompers sent a message to the Mexican labor leaders inviting them to a joint conference that they might carry back to their constituents the "real sentiment of the people of both nations and enable them to know the elements and conditions attending to drive both countries into war."

Five Mexican leaders arrived in June. While the labor conference was sitting came the Carrizal incident. Mr. Gompers sent a telegram to General Carranza imploring him "in the name of common justice and humanity, in the interest of a better understanding between the people and governments of the United States and Mexico, for the purpose of giving the opportunity to maintain peace and avoid the horrors of war, upon the grounds of highest patriotism and love," to release the American soldiers taken prisoner in the Carrizal fight.

That same evening the newspapers announced Carranza had released the soldiers. As a result of the labor conference a joint compact was signed, by which the union laborers of Mexico and the United States agreed to do all possible to prevent war between the two nations and to advance their many common interests.

The compact further urged the appointment of a joint commission to consider international differences. This plan was actually carried out in the Atlantic conference.

Later in the summer three representatives of one of the principal labor federations, the Federation de Sindicatos Obreros de la Republica Mexicana, came to Washington to ask Mr. Gompers' advice on various matters. When they returned they carried a formal message to the members of their organization, in which Mr. Gompers outlined some of the things the Mexicans should keep in mind in organizing their industrial workers and suggested a "Mexican Federation of Labor somewhat after the fashion of the A. F. of L."

The representatives of the Mexican federation presented to the American federation a gold medal inscribed "To the American Federation of Labor. As a loving token from the Mexican Workingman to the Workers of America."

The executive council adds: "There is an identity of interest between the property holders and employers of both countries. The 15 millions of Mexicans among whom low standards of living and work, low wages and long hours have prevailed have constituted a real barrier to progress and betterment among the workers in this country. This is true not only along the border line but its influence is felt even among the central states. There are now thousands of Mexican workers in the cities along the border lines and in the mining regions of the west and in some of the eastern states. In Los Angeles alone there is a Mexican population of about 15,000. There are mining communities in Arizona and Colorado which are composed almost wholly of Mexicans."

"Mexican workers have been imposed upon and brought into this country even as far as Chicago to be used as strike-breakers to defeat the efforts of the United States workers in reducing hours of work and securing higher wages. This problem must be met by the development of the organized labor movement in Mexico and by the organization of the Mexicans within our own country.

"As clearly and keenly we have been kept in touch with the progress of the labor movement of Mexico (for it always remembered that in Mexico the revolutionary movement was really a labor movement), set we were agreeably surprised to learn of the wonderful progress and achievements of the workers of Mexico in shortening hours of labor, increasing their wages and standards, and improving their conditions of work, and this particularly since the overthrow of Huerta and the establishment of the Constitutional government. This has been general; yet in the state of Yucatan, Mexico, some of the poorest and best conservative labor conditions and labor legislation have been adopted within the past year and a half."

RAMPANT MONKEY HOLDS UP A TRAIN

Pet Was Finally Shot to Death by Man He Attacked.

BISHOP, Cal., Nov. 14.—Because a large monkey belonging to Miss Katherine Smith was not served breakfast at the usual hour the other morning he went on a wide premeditated rampage and bit a young lady on the ankle, but could not make a meal of it, climbed all over a man he disliked and finally held up a passenger train.

The train engineer and fireman were astonished and frightened when the monkey, half standing in the middle of the narrow-gauge track and grimacing horribly, confronted the locomotive. The face was too much for them, and the engineer shut the throttle and threw on the brakes.

The startled passengers got off and helped chase the chattering monkey away. The conductor delivered himself of an oration that wouldn't have served as a eulogium at the monkey's funeral.

As a climax he got mixed up, scrambled off a box car, with a man named Monk, and scratched his face severely. The two-legged Mr. Monk objected, and when he could find a gun he pumped shot into the four-legged monkey until he resembled a sieve and ceased to breathe. His mistress is disconsolate.

SEASON VS. SPIRIT.

SUCH a day as today gets us into the feeling of Thanksgiving day, doesn't it? Makes one think of juicy, delectable-smelling turkey, roasting, frosty apples, red cranberries and pumpkin pie; crackling logs and roasting chestnuts, the woody, clean smell of chrysanthemums, and grandmother and grandfather.

And then we get that sensation of comfort and well-being. Feeling that the world is good to live in after all, and especially this very land which we call ours. We expand under such an atmosphere until we are ready for anything. How kind we are, how gentle, how forgiving how eager to laugh, even if the joke be upon our own head. Indeed we are happy, and we want every one else to be in the same condition. Such is the spirit of Thanksgiving.

But like everything, it doesn't last. Gradually we contract until we fit into the tight little rut we have worn for ourselves along the highway of life. Then again things go wrong, our laugh flickers into a smile, and then dies. We criticize more harshly than we did before; we won't be kind because we are afraid some one will laugh at us. We won't forgive for fear we will appear more lenient than we should. And so we forget the spirit of the Thanksgiving day, and complain about the coldness of the weather and the high cost of living.

Why is it that we can't keep the spirit of that particular day throughout the year? You will admit it is a wonderful sensation, a most acceptable and desirable spirit, which not only gives you happiness, but to all those around you.

Perhaps the trouble is, that it is only surface pleasure and only surface happiness that comes from the outer man, other than the inner one. Perhaps it is the thing of the flesh, rather than the thing of the spirit. Perhaps it is that our bodies are more unfeignedly thankful than our hearts. Why not every day a Thanksgiving-spirit day — don't you feel like it today?

TIPS FROM TEXAS.

(Dallas News)

The best way for a girl to keep her skirt from bagging at the knees is to cut it off above them.

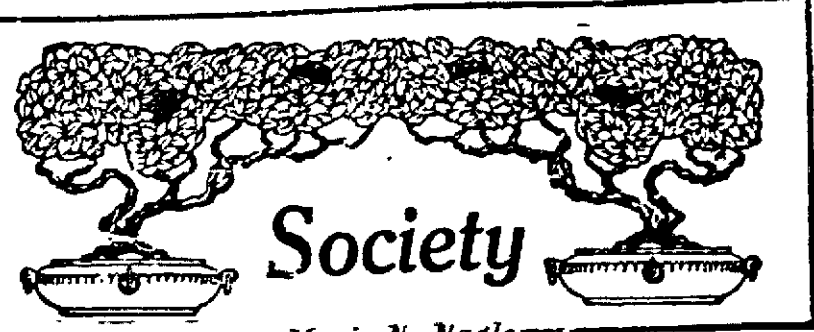

For our part, we think it is all right for a lady's shoes to match the outside of her purse if they also match the inside.

If it is true that there are such things as "air pockets," married lady aviators ought to be very successful at going through them.

Our suggestion to girls who dine out is that it is all right for them to pretend a fondness for highballs if they want to marry that kind of out is that it is all right for them.

Maybe you also have noticed that an economical man gets almost as much fun out of a ten-cent cigar in a hotel lobby as an extravagant woman gets from a dime lunch in a department store.

HINTS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

Oyster Omelet — Chop very fine 12 large oysters, or double that number of small ones. Beat the yolks and whites of 6 eggs separately, as for pie cake—the whites until they stand in a heap. Put 3 tablespoons of butter in a frying pan and heat while you are mixing the omelet. Stir 1 cup of milk into a deep dish with the yolks, and season with salt, pepper, and chopped parsley. Next put in the chopped oysters, beating vigorously as you add them gradually. When they are thoroughly incorporated, pour in 1 tablespoon of melted butter, and, finally, whip in the whites lightly and with as few strokes as possible. If the butter in the frying pan is hot—and it ought to be, so that the omelet may not stand uncooked—put the mixture into the pan. Do not stir it, but when it begins to stiffen, "to set," in the culinary phrase, slip a broad-bladed, round-pointed dinner knife between the omelet and the pan, and lift it out. It would be better to use a spatula. It should be better to use a spatula. It should be better to use a spatula.

Roast Oysters — There is no pleasure with luncheon. Immediately following the luncheon a delightful program was given, which was opened with a paper on "Housing, Food and Marketing," by Mrs. F. W. Holmes. Mrs. Henry Enck gave a paper on "German Americans." A color scheme of rose and white was carried out with chrysanthemums. The only guest of the club was Miss Marie Warner of Quincy, Mich., who is the house guest of Mrs. S. S. Wheeler.

With so much stress put on the separate coat and one-piece dress the American woman is apt to forget her long trusted and never-found-waiting friend the coat suit. The coat suit is particularly an American garment, as is the separate blouse, and it seems deplorable that the women of our country should give up such a garment because her French sister sees but little use in it. The real fact is that American women are active, in every sense of the word. They walk where their European sisters ride. They work, where their other sisters play. But even when they play they do it actively. For most any occasion there is nothing like a coat suit and a blouse for appropriateness. Dressed in such no woman feels that she is not fittingly clothed for any occasion. Now for a secret. Many women have pleaded an excuse for not buying the suit because prices were too high. Of course it is a recognized fact that all cloth, linings, trimmings and labor that go into a suit are higher than they have been for years. But here is the secret. Merchants, even here in your own town, are reducing their suit prices because coats and one-piece dresses have been in demand. Consequently they are making little, if any profit on their suits, and now any woman can buy this garment for less than she paid for many years. Coats and dresses have not been reduced, and women who know how to shop realize that they won't be. The well dressed woman realizes the value of a suit, and the wise woman, who is also the well dressed woman, will not let the opportunity slip of availing herself of a suit, somewhat cheaper than she would have bought it early this fall. Poor

FAVORS OF FASHION.

Among new hats, crowns are high and not so oval as of late, poked down in the center to give a soft fold, a narrow brim droops all the way round. These hats are invariably finished with a twist of metal ribbon or soft cord ribbon, tied in a natural bow not quite in front. The new way of wearing veils with these hats is to have them thrown over the crown, the front edge just reaching below the eyes, while at the back they are allowed to float gracefully. There is a larger variation of these same hats, always with the dented crown, in this case, however, the brim is larger and takes a beautiful undulating sweep. The crowns of these too, are encircled with a twist in some pretty contrast. Tricorne hats are still to be worn, but with a difference. A dash of the Napoleon model appears in the upturned brim in front, though this is given a double punch of the velours or silk, thereby adding considerably to its grace, while the long lines and sharp points of the back maintain the more decided characteristics of the tricorne. A new development of the Glengarry will also be seen in the autumn; one advanced model in this style having been already prepared in velours of Sevres blue. Traps of velvet, coming from the hat and worn under the chin, have been crowing in favor and are likely to continue later on, carried out in velvet and ice; these are worn plain, without bow or knot. Some of the latest hats have the appearance of being worn back to front, so volatile a thing is the mode. In this case, the back, turned up close to the hair, forms a narrow point exactly to line one's eye has become accustomed to see worn at the front, while the brim in front forms a long sweep. There is no doubt that every season in fashion becomes increasingly individual, the modes being taken merely as indications, and in these designs a high standard of artistic skill has been reached, from which inspiration may be drawn for a clever form is desired for individual expression.

THRIFT

Thrifty is not merely hoarding money.

It means the intelligent making of money, the wise spending of money, and the careful saving of your profits.

When you regularly put away in the Savings Account some of all you make, you are led to expend money more wisely and to earn it more industriously. A man of thrift is a man of sense.

He uses his brains in the question of money. And few things are of more importance to worldly happiness than money.

Every woman should have a rough and ready outfit, one that, should she desire to go to town in it, would serve appropriately for this occasion as well as for harder wear. A suit of dark grey cloth with short flaring skirt and three-quarter length coat is sparingly trimmed here with beaver fur. The convertible collar and unusual belt arrangement are noteworthy. Button boots and a simple draped turban hat complete the costume.

Slightest coat suit, after such faithful service, will come into its own, for one as sensible as the American women will see to it.

Mrs. I. L. Morris, assisted by Mrs. G. L. Tucker, entertained the members of the Round Table club at her home yesterday afternoon. Current events were used in answering roll call, and the program was opened with a paper on "A Study of Greece" by Mrs. J. B. Haines. Mrs. Guy Meyers read a paper on "Conservation" and Mrs. George Robinson gave a delightful paper on "The Sunny Side of Housekeeping." Mrs. R. J. Haines acted as critic for the day. After a delectable lunch the members adjourned to meet again in a week with Mrs. H. L. Hooper of West North street.

COLD SNAP FINDS MANY WITHOUT A SUPPLY OF COAL

Dealers Still Report Shortage of Product Due to Car Scarcity.

Charity Depots Receive Few Calls for Assistance Today.

With the weather prophet's prediction of much colder weather tonight and continued cold tomorrow, there is little chance of early relief for suffering families in the city without fuel and clothing. However, a canvass of the charity depots in the city shows that the demands for assistance are few.

At 4 o'clock this morning the thermometer registered 29 degrees above zero. At 9 o'clock it had gone down three more degrees and at 12 advanced two points. At 2 o'clock this afternoon it still maintained a position at 28 degrees above zero.

In addition to the heavy business reported by the fuel dealer, clothiers all over the city reported a big business as a result of the cold snap. Heavy wearing apparel appropriate for the winter was much in demand.

With the supply of coal nearly exhausted, it is likely that many families in the city will suffer if local dealers do not receive cars of the carboniferous product within the next couple of days. Soft coal is now retailing to the customer at $6.75 a ton and hard chestnut coal is selling at $9.50 a ton.

With the first heavy snow of the season last night came a drop in the temperature, with the result that many families caught without a supply of coal were forced to sit shivering in their homes. This morning calls were numerous at local charity depots requesting assistance.

Coal men still complain of delayed orders. Most of the local dealers are of the opinion that the present supply on hand they will be able to deliver orders for the next couple of weeks. However, they are unanimous in their prediction of a raise in the price of the product.

The car shortage is still given as the reason for the delay in obtaining orders from the mine. The busy industrial concerns are given as another cause of the shortage in cars. Since the big manufacturing concerns are willing and able to pay a higher price than the consumer, they are usually given the preference.

The head of one of the local charity organizations stated this morning that owing to the working conditions of the past year it was expected that little charity work would be done. It is believed that most of the complaints received this morning were due to the fact that the coal companies are rushed and unable to supply all the needy ones at once.

Some of the street car lines last night felt the effects of the snow storm, but the service in the city was not delayed, although interurban traffic was somewhat demoralized owing to the storm.

Here are styles that are bringing in Coat Buyers

A WIDE range of models, many of them copies and variations of imported models from famous European designers, are now on display in our Coat and Suit Section.

Note the rare touch of youthfulness in the lines of this new model—No. 510. It shows well that even in war times there is the joy of creative work in some hearts in Paris—the source of this Wooltex creation.

And this is but one from our showing—a showing filled with inspiration for the woman who buys for distinction, yet is always discreet in taste.

We are just now at the outset of the busy coat season so it is well to attend to this matter of a reliable coat while such models as these are to be had. And while the range of sizes is unbroken.

1916 Trotting Season the Best In History

Many Records Were Broken During Past Months.

By Frank G. Menke.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The trotting season of 1916 probably was the most successful in the entire history of the "sport of kings."

So many records were established that it would take an adding machine to total all of them. One after another the old marks of years standing were wiped out and new ones posted. And many of those endured for only a week or so, when they, too, were effaced by some newer burst of speed by one or another of the many remarkable horses that were campaigned in 1916.

And from out of the dust of many thrilling brushes, emerges Tommy Murphy, of Poughkeepsie, to wear again the crown that goes to the champion reitman. The great New York state pilot of trotters and pacers won $53,557 during the season, which topped the second place Walter ("Long Shot") Cox by close to $10,000.

A summary of the 1916, and a comparison with that of 1915, follows:

1916—12 meetings, 248 races, 732 heats; average time, 2:08.09; purses, $472,418.

1915—10 meetings, 206 races, 697 heats; average time, 2:08.57; purses, $427,788.

The fastest average time was made in Columbus, with 2:07:03; the slowest was in Atlanta, where the average was 2:10:01. The richest meeting was the one in Lexington, Ky., where $38,620 in purse money was distributed. Atlanta was the "poor" meeting, the awards there totalling only $21,820.

The winnings of the leading drivers follow:

Driver	Total
T. W. Murphy	$53,557.50
Walter Cox	73,873.00
Alonso McDonald	30,882.75
B. T. Geers	30,524.50

N.Y. Giants Ready For 1917 Season

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The Giants are all set for the pennant drive of 1917. Absolute harmony prevails in the executive. Fighting Mac will have carte blanche to hew out a punant as he sees best. This much was decided at the annual meeting of the National Exhibition and Amusement Company yesterday afternoon. Not only were the stockholders delighted with the whirlwind finish of the little Napoleon but they have implicit confidence in the Mac and board of directors who stood behind McGraw through the 1916 drive. The annual election of officers returned the old government intact.

Secretary John B. Foster, who has been up to his eyes in work on the Army-Navy football game came up for air long enough yesterday afternoon to state that he had just about completed details for the joint tour of the Giants and Detroit Tigers next spring. So many of the towns in

Lajoie, Wealthy, Plans to Retire From Baseball

LARRY LAJOIE.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14.—It is probable that Larry Lajoie's baseball career came to an end with the past season, and that he will retire with considerable wealth. The big Frenchman has been drawing $9,000 a year for the past several years, but with the close of the 1916 season that agreement expired. It is said to be practically certain that Connie Mack will not retain Lajoie, because of his intention to build up a team with youngsters. Lajoie came into the National league in 1896 from Fall River. The Philadelphia club sent a scout to look over the Fall River team and he selected Phil Goler, and Lajoie was thrown in for good measure. In a short time Lajoie became one of the most famous of ball players.

Saturday's Contest Stirs Up Interest

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—With Pittsburgh looming up the strongest foot ball team in the east and Nebraska claiming the honors west of the Mississippi river, interest in the middle west is centered upon the battle for the big nine championship which has narrowed to Northwestern and Ohio state. Northwestern stock is booming as the result of an announcement that Elmer McDewitt, one coach, who has been on the border with the Minnesota national guard will return today on leave of absence and remain until the season ends. Northwestern is picked to win over Purdue Saturday. Ohio's game with Case does not affect the conference standing, so the purple and Buckeyes will have a clean slate when they meet a week from Saturday.

New Life Injected Into Fight Squad

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 14.—New life has been injected into the Tigers on account of the Hattie and Howerlaker joining the squad of coaches on hand to ship the Tigers into shape for the Yale game next Saturday. Hattie's dynamic presence put in "ch pep" into the whole team.

Eilerman Cadets to Put Lima on Basketball Map

Manager Dickey Leases New Building on East Spring Street.

Although it was at first thought that Lima would be without a representative basketball team this season, the Eilerman Cadets have come into the limelight and will endeavor to furnish local fans with a high class of basket tossing. Manager Dickey, who will head the tribe, has leased the new Army hall in the Leist block on East Spring street, a short distance from Main.

After completion, the floor is expected to be the best in Northwestern Ohio. With a playing space of 40x70 feet, it can easily be seen that there will be plenty of room for the athletes to get about. Fans will find no trouble being comfortable throughout the performances as the seating capacity is set at about 1,000.

Nothing but high class teams will be booked by the management. Such teams as the H. C. A. C. of Kenton, Buckeye Paints of Toledo, Darton Cadets, Ottawa Germans, Cellon, and other ones are expected to be on the Cadets' schedule.

The Cadets are known all over the state for their clever and fast playing on foreign floors, and will have no trouble in winning a majority of their games on their home floor.

In comparison with last year's the team has been considerably strengthened. Hill, Lima High school coach, and formerly with the Wahash and Bradish college, variety fives, will be used at center.

A Sensible Cigarette delivers COMFORT

If you think of Fatimas as being in a class by themselves, it must be due to one and only one reason—

Fatimas actually deliver a service that no other cigarette can give.

If you are smoking Fatimas you have discovered this. You have found that their delicately balanced Turkish blend is comfortable. That is why Fatimas leave you feeling fine and fit even after an unusually long-smoking day.

Surely—a comfortable smoke must be a sensible smoke.

"SHINING" BARRED BY AUTHORITIES

Game Warden Charles Haines has been given instructions in regard to what is known as "shining" among hunters. This is accomplished by driving an automobile down the road and shining the head lights of the machine in fields. As rabbits are easily attracted by the light they sit up in the light and make easy targets for hunters.

According to the report of hunters the cottontail is very plentiful this year. In fact they are so numerous that it is not necessary any more to use a dog in starting them. According to the report of local hardware dealers an extra heavy run on hunters' supplies has been noticed this season.

FOUND HIS MONEY IN DARKNESS OF WOODS

NORWALK, O., Nov. 14.—A Norwalk man started out hunting recently. He took with him his trusty dog and rusty gun to hunt rabbit or squirrel or woodchuck, or whatever is in season.

He grew tired and sat down on a log to rest. When he came home that night his wife asked, the first thing, about that $125 a man had paid him in the morning. He searched every pocket. Money gone! "No consideration" Nothing to do but find it.

So he set out into the night, lantern in hand, and traveled the back trail. He searched and searched, but all in vain, until he came to the long where he had rested. And there was the little musty rod that had caused all the trouble. He admits now he's a good hunter—for money.

NO DOUBT ABOUT THIS

Foley Cathartic Tablets are just a plain, honest, old-fashioned physic. They act promptly and effectively on the bowels without pain, griping or nausea. They keep the stomach sweet, the liver active and the bowels regular. They banish biliousness, sick headaches, sour stomach, indigestion. H. F. Vorkamp. L-t-s

PROHIBITION GAINS IN NEW YORK, ALSO.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The rapid gains of prohibition in New York state were noted today by William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, in a statement on the election results. On October 1 last, more than 600 liquor selling places went out of business in this state. This is two-thirds as many as were closed by Nebraska's vote for statewide prohibition, said Mr. Anderson, nearly as many as went out of business in the entire state of Virginia on November 1, and about three times as many as were closed in South Dakota as a consequence of the election this fall. The league is pushing proposed legislation by which every community in the state would have the right to vote on local option.

INCREASE OF COKE OVENS.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 13.—Announcement is made that the Brier Hill Steel Company, upon the completion of its 65 by-product coke ovens, now in process of construction, will announce an appropriation for an additional battery of 48 ovens, which will give the corporation a total of 123. The additional ovens will require an appropriation of $1,000,000.

MARKETS

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—After a show of weakness at the opening today the market developed a strong tone and during the first 15 minutes nearly all the important issues joined in a vigorous upward movement. There was selling by room traders and a few bear punters at the start, which caused losses on the first sales from fractions to over 2 points. Central Leather dropped from 105 to 102½, followed by a rally to 105½. Steel common determined the general market tone after the start. That stock yielded ¼ to 120½, but within a few minutes it was up to 121½. Republic Iron and Steel advanced 2½ to 84. New York Airbrake made a vigorous gain, advancing nearly six points to 166½. Lackawanna Steel rose 2½ to 97½. Utah Copper rose 3-4 to 119 and Anaconda 3-4 to 99½. The motor issues, however, were in demand from the start. Maxwell opened 1½ points up at 73½ and followed this by a further advance to 74½ before the end of the first 15 minutes. Allis-Chalmers rose ½ to 31½, the preferred ¾ to 88½. Willys-Overland advanced ¾ to 38. Studebaker after opening ½ lower at 12½ rose to 126 on a few transactions.

Mexican Petroleum rose a point to 106 at the start and then rose to 107½ during the next few minutes trading. The railway issues after sustaining losses at the start, rallied substantially in the later dealings. Louisville and Nashville opened 1½ lower at 133 and Washburn preferred 1½ lower to 38½.

Covering of shorts in steel common carried the price of that stock to above 122 in the late forenoon trading. Central Leather rose to 108½ and Mexican Petroleum to 108. International Paper rose 2½ points in all to 69½ and Industrial Alcohol sold at 137 against 135½ at the close yesterday.

The copper shares were again strong, with Utah advancing from 118½ to 119½. Anaconda from 99½ to 100½. Ray Consolidated from 34 to 34½ and American Smelting which closed yesterday at 111½ rose to 114½.

ROYAL DUCHESS, BIG-GAME HUNTER, RED CROSS "CZAR"

Her Grace Elena of Aosta is Also a Princess of France.

Inspector General, She Rules Italian Service With Vigor.

ROME, Nov. 14.—Elena, princess of France, daughter of the late Comte de Paris, claimant to the French throne, married to the Duke of Aosta 21 years ago, is one of the most remarkable women who have married into the Italian royal family. Born in England, where her family lived in exile, married there to the king of Italy's uncle at the age of 24, she arrived in Italy with her mind already trained and her ideas about life and the life she liked to lead steadily fixed. At her home in Turin she was never very popular with her husband's relations. They said she had too strong a mind. But she used to spend most of her time among the poorest of the Turinese, just as, in Kingston, England, she went about in the lowliest cottages, washing the dirtiest babies and nursing the most neglected mothers.

When the Duke of Aosta was appointed commandant of the army corps at Naples, she attempted to set that dirtiest of all cities in order. She lost her health in the attempt and had to give up her more active and charitable works. Doctors recommended change of air and the sea breezes of a more northern climate. To the astonishment of her family she chose Abyssinia, wildest of African hunting grounds, and spent many months every year hunting big game, with no other companion than an English lady in waiting and the attendants and guides. For weeks at a time her family never saw her. Then she would return to Italy, only to go off hunting again when the proper season came around.

The result of her strange and lonely travels is a book on her hunting experiences, dedicated to her two sons, Princes Amadeo and Amedeo. It is a book that teaches the cult of the beautiful, of courage, of audacity, and that religion of nature which elevates the soul and leads it, in a hymn of adoration, toward God. She has also a splendid collection of stuffed tigers and other big game shot by her own hand.

When Italy went into the war the princess took up Red Cross work, and, as inspector general of the Red Cross nurses in Italy, she is the terror of diletantes and the satisfaction of the thousands who enter hospitals in order to do some good. Tall, imperious, and perfectly self-possessed, she goes about from one hospital to the other, setting every detail in order, improving, extending, reorganizing, and has now brought Italian Red Cross hospitals to a state of well-nigh perfection. While her husband commands the Third Army corps at the front, she commands all the nurses. She has organized them all, taking over the work soon after Italy entered the war, at a moment when it was "the thing" for all smart women to look becoming in the white apron and veil of the Red Cross sister.

One of the first rules she made was that society women volunteering to nurse must nurse. Officers are nursed by nurses alone. This rule, which has had such good results in Russia, soon put straight many little abuses. True, the number of volunteers dwindled, but the quality of the nursing improved immensely. Elena is no mere visiting inspectress, to walk through wards smiling and flower-tending; she rarely smiles. She lives in the hospitals which she is inspecting, looks into every detail of nursing, from points of discipline to the quality of the patients' broth, and promptly dismisses nurses who fail to improve under her correction.

The sanitary part of Italy's army ordinances was somewhat neglected in the period of preparation, but this remarkable woman has worked day and night for over a year, and now there are not better equipped Red Cross hospitals than those on the Italian front. She also has charge of the ambulance service and that of hospital trains, which proceed with clock-like regularity. In one month she renewed all the material of the train service, sending away more than half the staff. Her first circular note to the nurses and orderlies under her charge told them candidly that they must either conform to her new rules or quit.

The woman who dared talk like that to some of the highest society lights in Italy, who has levelled them all into one class, who must obey orders without question, and who has succeeded in doing it, "The Generalissima." She is a well-known figure in the most dangerous parts of the war zone, in hospitals where the windows shake from the enemy's bombardment.

Robbins, dean of the Boston School of Anatomy and Embalming, was arrested on a charge of illegally dispensing drugs. The names of the women held were not divulged by the police. Scenes of the wildest confusion followed when the police broke into the house. Many fashionably gowned women fainting and some of them tried to flee through the streets.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salt which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid waste, and, if they are not doing this, the vitality of the body is rapidly undermined. The kidneys are the source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Salt Sals is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

PRICES OF DEAD RABBITS GOING UP IN AUSTRALIA

Live Ones Still as Much of a Pest as Ever to the Ranchmen.

No One Can Account for Increased Cost of Wild Meat.

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 14.—Along with pretty much everything else, on account of the war, of course, the price of rabbits, which plague Australia by the million, has gone up. Not many months ago when a housewife in Sydney offered a "wild rabbit" huckster ("wild rabbit" being the yowl of street sellers) 25 cents for a rabbit dressed and delivered at her back door, she received 9 cents in change. This 9 cents would amply cover the cost of vegetables to accompany the rabbit on the table in the form of boiled rabbit, or steamed rabbit, or rabbit soup, and thus a double item on the bill of fare was always cheaply obtained.

Of late, when the good lady tenders the itinerant vendor of rabbits a quarter all she gets back in change is three cents, which at the present prices for vegetables, which, if they are not higher "on account of the war," are certainly no lower than formerly, does not provide many "flin's."

The reason for the advance is as elusive as other reasons for the high cost of living. Rabbits are as anathema with Australian farmers and sheep ranchers as they ever were, and their numbers are no less, which has led to the presumption that it must be the war which has augmented their price—but just why no one knows.

A rather curious light on the rabbit business is afforded by the attitude of the Queensland Laborite government toward it. Until the present administration came into power in that state it was not lawful to sell rabbits within the state. Rabbits were certainly retailed in Brisbane and other cities at odd times, but notwithstanding myriads of the cottontails infest Queensland none were obtained locally for consumption but all were imported from New South Wales or Victoria. No steps were taken, however, to interfere with the disposal of outside rabbits as an article of diet.

The reason for the prohibition was the belief of the government authorities, which was backed up by the opinion of various rabbit destruction boards throughout Queensland, that it would be a mistake to encourage trade in rabbits because it might create a vested interest and induce people to perpetuate the beasts rather than seek to eradicate them. But the labor government takes a different view. It has granted permits to kill and to trade in rabbits and as a result rabbits in considerable numbers are being marketed in Brisbane and other coastal points. The high prices for meat, although Queensland is comparatively better off in this respect than other states of the Australian commonwealth, has given rabbit trappers and rabbit refrigerating firms a good opportunity to push their calling, but the policy of the government is not being regarded with much enthusiasm by farmers and rabbit boards owing to the fear that these engaging in the trade will see to it that rabbits do not die out in the sections of the state where they are operating.

It has lately been found in New South Wales that not only is the rabbit a curse in himself but that in early winter he breeds another curse. The howly which in many districts is a serious scourge to sheep ranchers, is directly attributable to rabbits. The flies are hatched by millions in the carcasses of rabbits which are poisoned and t.apped by thousands, and they attack ewes and young lambs with disastrous results. The only safeguard is sheep-dip, but frosts help to mitigate the troubles.

Woman Wins an Appeal.

Apropos of the compulsory destruction of the rabbits an important court decision was rendered not long since at an up-state town. A woman landholder was fined under the pasture protection act for having failed to continuously destroy rabbits on her property. She appealed from the police court's finding to quarter sessions on the novel ground that the information was defective, inasmuch as it did not allege that she had failed to kill rabbits "from time to time" between the dates specified in the information. The judge in quarter sessions upheld the appeal and subsequently issued a judgment granting costs against the pasture protection board inspector who laid the information.

It had long been the general opinion that rabbits would not spread from the interior districts to the coastal districts, but recently it has been discovered that unfortunately this belief is untenable. Agriculturists and dairy interests are being warned by the growing number of the animals in the latter areas, that once they get a foothold there they will overrun these regions, and that wire fencing and digging out and fumigating should not be begun at once. But this is not to say that there is not money in rabbits for some people, for a single rabbit refrigerating firm in the state earned $85,436 of them between July, 1915 and July last, and its operations involved the very respectable sum of $100,000.

THE NIGHT CLERK AGAIN DELIGHTS A BIG ORPHEUM CROWD

Fun, Fast and Furious, is Supreme at Popular House.

Despite the inclement weather, the announcement that "The Night Clerk" would play a return engagement the first half of this week was sufficient to fill the Orpheum at both performances last night. And Limates were not disappointed for they had the same pretty chorus, good cast and special scenery that was here before.

The scene is laid in a New York hotel lobby on New Year's night when everyone is enjoying himself except the poor night clerk. The millionaire's son, a part which well suits Merle Lewis, gets into trouble and decides to change places with the night clerk. In the meantime, his fiancee, her father and her six sisters arrive at the hotel and then things begin to happen.

Cecil Summers as the engineer the original funmaker of the production and he is a scream. He appears at the most unexpected times and places, and he and his boiler that always "just ready to blow up" would make a mummy laugh. The chorus of 12 girls are good singer and dancers and display some very pretty gowns. Altogether it is an admirable production and would more than fill the Orpheum for a week's entertainment.

Took the Hurt Out of Her Back.

Mrs. Anna Byrd, Tusculum, Ala. writes: "I was down with my back so I could not stand up more than half the time. Foley Kidney Pills took all of the hurt out." Rheumatic pains, swollen ankles, backache, stiff joints and sleep disturbing bladder ailments indicate disordered kidneys and bladder trouble. H. F. Vorkamp.

EUROPE'S CROOKS FLOCKING TO U. S. SUBJECT OF PROBE

Women Who Live by Wits Gain Entrance to Society Functions.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Scores of crooks, swindlers and confidence men, some of them internationally notorious have come to the United States as the only rich country open to them since the outbreak of the European war, according to the United States secret service and the bureau of investigation of the department of justice.

"Society crooks" who for many years plied their trade in European capitals and at Monte Carlo, the Riviera, Etretat, Ostend, Baden Baden and other celebrated continental watering places, have been driven to this country by the hard fortunes of war. Among them are several beautiful women, famed for their ability to live by their wits.

The more polished criminals are obtaining invitations to society functions and to famous clubs and already there have been several thefts of importance. There has come also a large contingent of "lower class" criminals, such as pickpockets, who left Europe to escape conscription.

FIND THE BODY OF MURDERED MAN IN RAILROAD CAR

HAMLER, Nov. 14.—Police authorities here are making an effort to round up 15 or 18 members of a railroad repair gang who may know something about the death of John Sullivan, 45, of Chicago.

Sullivan was found dead in a box car on Saturday. Coroner Boyer found marks on the man's neck that indicated he had been strangled.

Sullivan was fairly well dressed. Townspeople say they saw Sullivan with about 20 others, in a drunken quarrel in the B. & O. yards on Friday. The men had expected to go to work on railroad construction.

WAITING ON HEARING.

According to Emmett R. Curtin, president of the Lima Natural Gas Company, every energy is being directed toward giving Lima a good supply of gas during the winter months. However, much depends on the result of the hearing in Kenton next Monday of the injunction filed by residents of Lima and a number of small towns east of Lima to prevent their being cut off from gas supply. All factories were shut off from the gas supply on August 1 in Lima in order that the residents of the city would be supplied with more fuel.

GOOD STOVES

Are An Absolute Necessity With HIGH PRICED COAL

Cheap, poorly built stoves consume more fuel than well made, tightly fitted ones. The difference in price is small, as compared to the daily saving in coal.

The Retort self-feeding soft coal stove is the greatest fuel saver, the cleanest to operate, the most for the money of any soft coal heating stove sold in Lima. Over 30 years of personal experience in the sale of this stove in Lima warrants us in making this assertion "It's the stove you ought to buy."
